

Juliet Breeze, MD

Dr. Breeze graduated from Northwestern University with honors in English. She earned her medical degree from Baylor College of Medicine. After working in family practice several years, she moved her focus to the business of medicine. As a serial entrepreneur, she has developed several large group medical practices, private hospitals, and surgery centers. Dr. Breeze has also served on the Board of Directors of many start-up companies and charities.

Currently, she is the founder and Chief Executive Officer of Next Level Urgent Medical, one of the fastest growing healthcare companies in Texas. Next Level offers advanced primary care and urgent care in membership or traditional fee for service models.

She has been named EY Entrepreneur of the Year in 2022 and a Most Admired CEO by The Houston Business Journal.